This past year the nation continued to see unprecedented economic and fiscal challenges the likes of which had not been seen in decades. Retirees faced these hardships as well. While the economy began a slow recovery, unemployment remained high. We also celebrated the 75th anniversary of Social Security and 45th anniversary of Medicare, vivid reminders that even during times of economic hardship these two vital programs have remained strong, delivering the guaranteed benefits for which retirees worked hard.

Congress devoted much time and effort to health care reform. The enactment of the new legislation was a slow, tedious process that had many delays and many attempts to derail it. The law, signed by President Obama, contains many positive changes for retirees and older Americans, some immediate and some in the near future. The Medicare Part D doughnut begins to close. There will be no more co-payments for Medicare covered preventive screenings as well as for an annual wellness checkup. Medicare Advantage overpayments will end and thus extend the financial health of the Medicare Trust Fund. Pre-Medicare retirees will have help in affording health care.

Much of the cause of the economic distress over the past few years was due to Wall Street excesses that put the global economy in jeopardy. Congress enacted legislation to reform Wall Street practices and bring more transparency and oversight to the financial markets. Yet, there are those who would cut Social Security and Medicare benefits to make up for the excesses of Wall Street. We still must remain on guard against efforts to privatize and cut the Social Security and Medicare programs. We must continue to remind all Americans that they are programs that benefit all generations, not just retirees.

It is up to us to advocate for those issues on which older Americans depend for a respectable quality of life in retirement.

This Voting Record reflects how committed our elected representatives are to retirees and older Americans. Use it to educate yourself on where your elected representatives stand. Get active today and help create an America that protects the health and economic security of seniors, strengthens families and builds safe and thriving communities.
